Considerations:

- Bone augmentation is necessary sometimes (sinus lift, bone addition to increase thickness)
Fees vary depending on extent. $300-$1500. Rarely needed.
- Soft tissue augmentation. Sometimes done to improve look and longevity of the tissues around an implant. No extra charge in most of the cases.
- Implants in the front often require temporary crown for appearance and to shape the gum.
Price varies depending on the brand $250-500.
- Mid-range brand will work just as good as the top-brand. The difference is subtle, similar to comparing BMW and Toyota – both will work and drive, but top brands have longer history and more research, more representation in throughout the world. Top brand part will be easier to find anywhere in the world, but it's becoming less of an issue with global shipping and globalization. Personally, I would not hesitate to use either of the brands I use for myself.
- Implants are expected to last a very long time with adequate oral hygiene and good general health. They become like teeth. People get used to very quickly. Sometimes implant crown may need to be changed due to changing bite. We do not expect implants to last less than 15-20 years at least. Many will last a lifetime.
